our vision

we invest / with a higher meaning challenges

The background of the slide is a collage of four images arranged in a large, diagonal, triangular shape. The top-left image shows a misty forest with bare trees. The top-right image shows a crumpled, translucent plastic bag. The bottom-left image shows a close-up of a white wind turbine's lattice structure. The bottom-right image shows a clear plastic bottle floating in turquoise water, with a black strap or netting around it.

Demographic growth, lifestyle change, digital economy development, rising energy demand, increasingly rare resources, and continuously spreading pollution.

These are the current challenges of a planetary size, to which the world will have to respond.

vision

We are creating tomorrow's world already today. We have decided to create the future rather than to predict it. We want to know and influence how our lives, society, and business will change.

We see the future in pursuing projects and initiatives that will make it possible for us to face these challenges.

values

Highly experienced and hard-working people play the key role in each of our projects, while a story determining the basic values for our work is behind each project.

We finance and manage projects that have a higher meaning and that rely on innovation and sustainability as their basis.

We site wind farms where it makes sense, i.e. in locations with stable air currents. We identify the sites based on long-term test measurements of the weather conditions.
